The screenshot shows the Google Slides interface. At the top, there is a search bar labeled "Search engine" and a "Slides" header. Below the header, the "Start a new presentation" section features a "Template gallery" with options: Blank, Book report, Field trip, Flash cards, Science project, and Photo album. A callout "Create a new presentation" points to the "Blank" template. Another callout "Create a presentation using a template" points to the "Photo album" template. Below this is the "Recent presentations" section, showing "Example 1" and "Example 2", both marked as "Opened 15:16". A callout "Access a previously created presentation" points to "Example 1". To the right of the recent presentations, there is a filter dropdown menu labeled "Owned by anyone" with icons for list, sort, and folder views. A callout "Filter presentations" points to this dropdown menu.
